PENNIES FOR THOUGHTS

It seems that the Pullman people have taken that coy circumlocution of the curious. "A penny for your thoughts," and put it to work. Since March, 1941, they have paid out pennies to the total of $180,000 to their employees for thoughts on how Pullman cars might be built or operated more efficiently. During that time they've received 36,545 suggestions and adopted 14,089.

Probably we shall have to wait until after the war for most of those 14,089 boons to travelers. Until then we only hope that the Pullman employees manage to devise a noiseless, bumpless coupling process (at least in the dead of night) and also some sort of walkie-talkie arrangement by which the passengers with an upper may get in touch with the porter and procure the ladder, even when he has lingered in the club car past the porter's bedtime.—St. Petersburg Independent.

BETTING ODDS

Election betting odds vary widely in Wall Street. Two wagers were placed on Dewey, at 5 to 7 and 6 to 8. Later odds of 5 to 10 were reported from the floor of the stock exchange. That institution has long since banned betting from handling bets or member firms from serving as depositaries for money wagered. Nevertheless, we're told it's possible to place a bet on the floor of the exchange, with $5 on Dewey getting you $10 if he wins; if you favor Roosevelt, you'd have to put up $12 in order to get $10 back.—Wall Street Journal.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR

There is not the slightest doubt in our minds that Florida has chosen wisely in selecting Millard Caldwell out of six Democratic candidates for the office of governor in the coming four years.

Before the primary we felt that there was little to choose between Caldwell and Ernest Graham. But when Graham showed himself to be a poor loser, we felt that the state had had a lucky escape, and we congratulated ourselves that we had not picked him in preference to Caldwell.

We also, to speak frankly, would have preferred a South Florida man for governor.

Lions Entertain Football Players

Coach Frank Olsen and members of his Pahokee Blue Devil football team were guests at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Lions Club. In sitting up, prospects for a successful season for the Blue Devils this season. Coach Olsen said that he had an excellent squad of 36 boys coming out for practice, their spirit was good and prospects as a whole, are brighter now than they were the time last year.

ndr. Spessard Holland is a South Florida man, and he made a good one. South Florida has had less than its share, not only of governors, but also of representatives in both houses of the state legislature. And South Florida has suffered because of this situation.

It is not "sectionalism," as North Florida defendants allege, to point this out. If there is any sectionalism in Florida politics, it is to be found in the attitude of some North Florida politicians, who advocate the defeat of any South Florida candidate on the sole ground that if he is elected their section of the state will have to accept a less disproportionate share of state money.

As long as this condition prevails, South Florida will suffer until it learns to give more votes to a good South Florida candidate when he seeks office.

But this part of the state, and especially Pinellas county, has little to fear from Caldwell. He got handsomely support in South Florida in the second primary, and tremendous support in Pinellas county in both primaries.

Pinellas county was the only one in the state to give Caldwell such large majorities in both primaries. In the first, it is our recollection that he had a larger margin of votes in Pinellas than in any other of the state's 17 counties. In the second primary he got a slightly larger margin in Duval county, but a smaller percentage of the votes.

Caldwell, of course, will not be a South Florida partisan in the governor's mansion, but Spessard Holland hasn't been that, either and South Florida never expected him to be. All South Florida asks or expects is an even break, and it can look to Caldwell for one.—St. Petersburg Independent.

SWIMMING

The time of year when everybody's within reaching distance of a lake or stream should get out and swim at least once a week. And those who can't swim should learn before they get any older.

The safest place to learn, right now, one of the main arguments for a human being turning himself into a fish. One of the most striking lessons along this line is the fate of so many soldiers lost at sea from sunken ships because they couldn't swim well. But the lives lost likewise at home, in streams, ponds and lakes, are far too many.

Swimming is surprisingly easy to learn when it is once tackled in earnest. A novice should be able to get started in a few days, and their strength and perfect himself from then on. It is also one of the most healthful of all sports, when practiced in clean water and not continued to the point of exhaustion.

A large part of this sport is mental. It is a great satisfaction to earth-bound people to discover that they can live and move safely in a new element, almost as different from walking as if they were in another world. And if it puts them into rapport with the fishes and clams, for a while, there's no harm in that.—Sanford Herald.

War Prisoners Won't Be Used in Vegetable Deal

Shall prisoners of war be used as laborers at the packing houses of the upper glades? This question is being considered by individuals and agencies of the government that deal with such matters. In general, the view is, No, not if it can be avoided.

Opinion is expressed that if quarters were available at rent charges in proper relation to wages, there would be ample labor for packing houses, but it is too late in the season to try to get more dwellings erected. If war prisoners were brought in, probably the government would provide shelter but this would be portable houses subject to removal.

An objection to war prisoners is that they are non-spenders; they would be paid the prevailing rate of wages but the money they receive would not be paid out for rent, food, clothing, and amusement—total stores, moving picture houses, saloons and other establishments would derive no profit from their presence in the community. The thought that there might be escape and searches and riots is not generally entertained but it is realized that difficulties might follow from the presence of prisoners who had been educated.

Apprehension about labor shortage is not so keen as to deter growers and packing house operators from going ahead with their programs for producing and packing and shipping a big crop.

Church Notes From Canal Point Baptists

I am challenged as I visit the homes in and about Canal Point by the number of people who claim themselves the name of "Christian" and never have done anything about it. It is this group of people, and those of us who need to do more for our neighbor, that I want to talk to Sunday night. It is a shame and disgrace for us to deem ourselves Christians and then not do the things He says. The house of God should be the home of every Christian; if you don't think it is the place it ought to be your duty is to come out and make it what it ought to be. We do ourselves, our churches, and our Lord no good to separate ourselves from God's people. Come to the Canal Point Baptist Church at 8:00 o'clock Sunday evening and hear a sermon which will be a new one, one adapted for the hearts of any who might think he can live as good a Christian life outside the Church as in it. I dare you to find Scriptural argument for such a foolish conviction! I venture to say that everyone who claims salvation and neglects the Church is neglecting the very institution through whose channels he met his Lord. Would you build a house then live in a tent?

Pastor of Missionary Baptist Church, Canal Point.

PAIEST CHURCH

Shedden Springsgrove will be the home of the most notable Sunday night, in the presentation of "Shine On Me," with augmentation by the choir, at the First Baptist Church, Pahokee, eight o'clock. The choir will also sing "They Crucified the Lord." The pastor, Rev. C. A. Mohrer, will preach on "The Coming of Christ." The new organized five voice choir under the direction of Mr. R. C. McBray and the orchestra will lead off the congregational song. Baptism Supper at 4. Canal Point.

Farm Bureau Backs Work Amendment

TAMPA, Oct. 5. (FNS)—Ignoring threats of boycotts and reprisals the Florida Farm Bureau has announced this week that it will continue an all-out campaign for the adoption of the "Right-to-Work" or open-shop amendment. It was announced this week when officials of the organization authorized executive secretary John P. Ford to go all the time necessary to bring the amendment to the attention of the voters.

Ford urged all county units of the Farm Bureau to do a thorough job in securing support of the amendment and promised that a full vote on the issue would mean its approval.

Plans for the annual convention of the Farm Bureau to be held in Tampa Nov. 16-17 were completed and Francis E. Corrigan of Bradenton was named program committee chairman.

Included in the list of speakers will be Governor Holland, Governor-elect Millard Caldwell, Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture and others.

TIME IS RIFE

Speaking before the Southern Division Conference of the Amateur Golf Club Association at in Savannah last week, W. E. Outman, director of the Florida Economic Advancement Council, said "never has there been a more opportune moment in which to inaugurate a development era of great promise for the south."

NEW JEWELRY STYLES

The smart new jewelry this season will hark back to the Lillian Russell era, according to Nadia Buckley, one of the country's outstanding jewelry designers. Lustrous palladium, the latest of white metals, is being widely used in these elaborate pins, earrings, bracelets and rings, she noted.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Millar

They have placed two truly great and popular actors in "The Prince Theatre" this Sunday. These two are Errol Flynn and Paul Lukas in support of these two are Jean Sullivan, a new player on the screen, who is destined for stardom in a very short time. She is the little lady, according to the story of the show, knew Errol Flynn the least and loved him the most.

According to the story in the current press book, in one of the most daring episodes of the unending battle of underground patriots against the Nazis, an escaped convict, after defying capture, has offered to exchange his life for that of one hundred innocent hostages, scheduled to be executed for bombing a vital bridge in France.

Tuesday-Wednesday brings on a doubleheader. First picture up is "None Shall Escape," which stars and features Marlene Hunt, Alexander Knox, Henry Travers, Eric Roal.

Story deals with a former Polish school teacher, who returned to Poland from Nazi Germany with the invasion forces and became a pariah, is brought to trial in Poland at the end of the war together with other Nazi criminals. He has ruined the girl with whom he was formerly in love in his school teaching days and committed numerous other crimes against the Polish citizens. The trial and punishment of the Nazi criminals bring the picture to an end. It is both interesting and exciting.

On the same program comes another of those South Sea Island stories that always hold a certain fascination for the average theatre goer. This one is "Love of the Island," which has as its stars

Marjorie Hart and Robert Lowery, and a very imposing cast of recognized Hollywood players.

The offering for Thursday-Friday is a re-run of a picture that enjoyed immense popularity during the time of its run. This picture is "Frisco Kid," which stars James Cagney and Margaret Lindsay and a great cast in support.

On the same program is a documentary picture that every one should want to see. It is "Memphis Belle," you can't forget that name. It is a history of the trip of that famous U. S. bomber and its heroic crew members. There are no recognized Hollywood stars in the picture, because they are all boys right in the service, but every one of those lads do a swell job in making this picture interesting to you.

And now lets get down to Saturday. The great moment for the members of the Six Sinners Gang. On this day comes "Outlaws of South Pass," which has a first Westerner practically all star cast. The story looks good and I don't see why the picture shouldn't click with everyone.

Signing off for the week. Have you thought about those packages going over seas to the boys? If not remember the dead line is October 10th. Don't forget those fellows over there who remember us at home more now than ever before. Make theirs a truly Merry Christmas!

See you at the movies. -Mal-

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

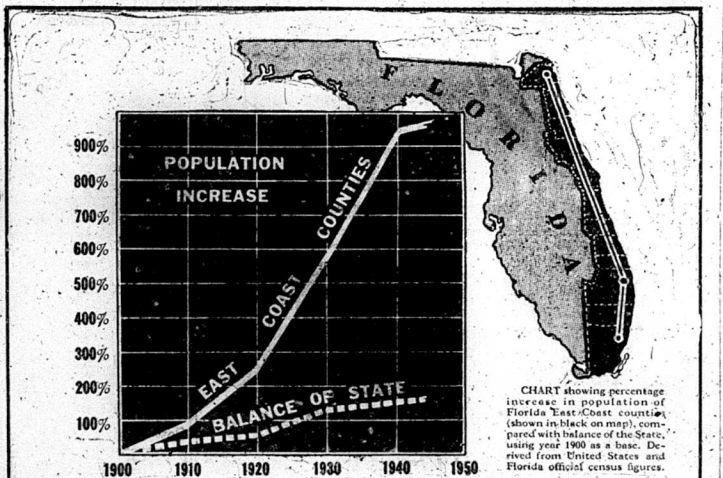

"It sounds almost like a miracle, Judge... how did we ever do it?"
"American industry did it, Sally. When the Japs conquered the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had dealt a death blow to our war effort. But, in less than two years, we are producing enough synthetic rubber in this country to supply all our military and essential civilian requirements."

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the most practical process at the time required huge amounts of industrial alcohol... far beyond the already overtaxed capacity of our industrial alcohol plants. So, overnight, our country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and produced hundreds of millions of gallons of the vitally needed alcohol."

"As a matter of fact, Sally, a high government official said recently, 'synthetic rubber is from 6 to 9 months ahead of where it could have been if alcohol had not been available for butadiene production.'"

"We were really fortunate, weren't we Judge, to have a beverage distilling industry in existence... able to help perform this great wartime miracle!"

A Record of Steady Growth

During the past forty years the East Coast of Florida has enjoyed a period of substantial and steady growth.

Between 1920 and 1940, the population of the coastal counties, served by the double track main line of the Florida East Coast Railway, increased 949 per cent. During the same period, the population of the rest of Florida increased 157 per cent.

The Florida East Coast Railway aided that remarkable development in various ways—by advertising the advantages of the East Coast of Florida, by making this section of Florida one of the easiest to reach. Its trains frequently brought thousands of visitors daily, many of whom eventually became permanent residents.

The ability of this double track railroad to handle a huge volume of extra traffic has made it possible for the East Coast of Florida to continue to progress during the war. After the war, there is every indication that this favorable trend will continue upward.

Due to current military traffic demands, the Florida East Coast Railway can now accommodate only a limited volume of civilian travel to and from Florida.

When more normal conditions return, this adequate double track railroad will be ready to promptly meet the needs of new gains in tourist volume. In population and in industrial development.

LIONS LETTER

To the Lions in Service:

This week I get a turn to write to members in service all over the globe. Our good wishes are with you. We will all be glad when you can again resume your place in the club. At today's meeting we had Robert Langi and his corner trio from the High School band. They played several numbers and got a good hand for their effort.

We had as guests at the meeting Coach Frank Odeen and his football squad. He introduced each of them and said that they would all give a good account of themselves at all games win, lose, or draw. He also said 'So had come out for practice. The first game will be with Delray this Friday.

The Rotary member from the High School, Roy Page, had as his guest, Donald Padgett who is a high school member of the Rotary club. Donald's father, Duncan, is chairman of our membership committee. I think he's slipping when he lets the Rotarians enroll his own son.

Tuesday night, October 17, is ladies night and a good program is planned for them. The tail-twister will be in all his glory for first will be raised to the limit and as his word is law, it will be no place for the faint hearted.

Yours for an early victory and a quick return.

R. J. (Bob) Schirder.

Three temptations are seen here, the breaking of God's Will, the sin of presumption, and the sin of covetousness. What a wonderful "make-handers," and this lesson? A most cordial invitation is extended to all unattached, single, visitors and service men to visit this class, which meets each Sunday morning at 9:45, Lions Club building. AFTER THE WAR

Food Industries, McGraw-Hill publication, warns commercial farmers that they might well give some thought to the effect of war-induced home-canning upon peacetime markets, pointing out that approximately 3,800,000 quarts were canned in American homes last year, the 1943 home pick being equivalent to more than half the 1941 commercial pack. It is anticipated that home-canning and home canning will continue on a large scale after the war.

chines is out under the shed on section 29, with Japanese lettering on it. The principle is sound for the Japs, but it is inadequate for the large-scale operation planned in the Everglades, and Newpoint Industries' people have designed a machine that is being guessed $75,000. This paragraph is running into deep stuff now, too advanced for us of the kindergarten class, and it is safer to back-track to how ramie is grown.

Ramie is propagated, that is, it is caused to grow and yield from sections of the roots, which as stated are cut to length of about nine inches. To get root sections for cutting, a field of mature ramie is plowed, to expose the roots. Workers follow up on this, to assemble the roots into small piles from which they are picked up and hauled to the shed where the gnarled growth is subdivided. "Trucks haul the prepared route to the fields and the sections are dropped by hand into furrows made as seed cane is planted." Planting is a hand operation, the expense being so low as to show no advantage for mechanical planting.

As growth is put out from the eyes of the planted roots, the growth spreads underground as runners, although planted in rows, growth appears up from between rows, and the field becomes solid. The ground being shaded by the dense cover of ramie, the harvest has been devised to reap the stalks of ramie; it is a pectin, a substance occurring in many vegetable tissues as a constituent of the sap of cell walls.

The ramie stalks carry side leaves; these leaves tend to fall off as the plant matures but it is desirable that they not be on the stalks. The tops of ramie plants do not contain fiber to the tips and it is desirable that the sheaves be topped. This has been done by the stalks are mowed to leave the tops contain 18 per cent protein, which suggested this residue would be fed for cattle.

In the test 75 per cent of the cows accepted it and ate it all of the bulls accepted it. In paragraphs above it is written as if the factory process of handling ramie has been engaged upon section 29, that is, the stalks are mowed to leave the tops contain 18 per cent protein, which suggested this residue would be fed for cattle.

Woman's Society Met Tuesday P. M.
